DISCLAIMERS!

DISCLAIMERS!

We have been in the battery business since 1989 and we know our competitors and client base for many markets. Unlike our competitors we do not sweep anything under the rug and there is no super fine print. Because of client comments to us as well as our own experiences with competitors we know many of their dark sides, and things to expect from a small percentage of our client base more than most of our clients. We also have one client market in particular that has a small percentage of colleagues with a very dark side which tabulates to a lot of lost money for us from stringers and freelancers.

Another difference is that since 1993, Rathbone always supplies Full Disclosure in black and white on the front end of your purchase where the boxes houses and widget buyers-value added distributors, want to be manufacturers, and the rest, give hype and evade their internal policies. There is no "Yes But" after you receive your product here. We have brand new competitor smart-chargers used here for testing their products that arrived here defective out of the box that were refused by the brand for replacement, or less desired repair. We know the rest of our competitors very well.

NO REFUNDS:
